Design features/Special Technologies

InfoMotion's 94Fifty® Smart Sensor Basketball and 94Fifty Basketball app, for both iOS and Android devices, measures muscle activity, so you can understand your playing strengths and weaknesses. It adapts as you improve, while providing basic, intermediate, and advanced level training to help you quickly build better shooting and ball handling skills. It's like having the best coaches in the world with you every day of the year.

Regulation ball with free downloadable app

The sophisticated sensor technology is miniaturized and completely concealed within the basketball, which maintains regulation size, weight, spin, and bounce. A free downloadable app lets you choose from hundreds of different options to improve skills

Instant feedback

Visual and audio voice feedback comes within milliseconds on every shot and dribble. By paying attention to this instantaneous, completely unbiased data, you can quickly learn how to adjust mechanics or address flaws. Now anyone in the house can become an expert trainer.

Adaptive workouts

The app adjusts as you improve and increases skill difficulty from playground up to pro level. Start at the Playground level and work through a choice of ball-handling, shooting, or total player workouts. Each level adds new drills and more difficult metrics to move onto the next level.

Develop your own skills at your own pace

Whatever skill is most important for you, 94Fifty can measure it and suggest ways to improve. The free app can count dribbles, dribble force, shot release speed, shot arc, and backspin.

Head-to-head competition

Automated, real-time scoring and leader boards determine the winner for up to five players. Pick from four different competitive games, then choose from up to 50 drills to see which player has the best skills. See who can get the most dribbles in 20 seconds, or earn bonus points for who can dribble fast with dribble power. Shooting competitions give bonus points for shooting with better shot arc or faster shot release speed. Current leader boards display winners and historical win-loss standings.

See your progress

Track daily and all-time bests. Sets goals for more than 50 drills and competitions. Let small successes every day lead to long-term achievement.
